Penta

Made from 90% Wool, 10% Nylon, in 33 colorways

Smart and sophisticated

Woven from worsted wool, Penta takes its name from five delicately selected yarns which combine to create enticing, complex colors, and harmonious multi-tonal hues. Borrowed from Ancient Greece, the name Penta derives from the classical Greek 'pente', meaning five.

A perfect palette

Penta's soft glow and cellular surface detail reflects contemporary interior trends which are reflected in the fabric's weave construction and worsted wool composition. This natural textile exudes style and sophistication; inspired by finely tailored worsted wool suits, Penta has a beautiful drape and handle and a perfectly considered color palette.

A unique construction

Color woven, each of Penta's 33 shades are intricately crafted using three different warp colors and three different weft colors; the singular yarns blend seamlessly together to create one iridescent colorway.

The fabric's unique construction creates a polychromatic effect, and the micro pattern detailing adds a touch of timeless beauty to commercial and residential interiors.

A multiplicity of uses

Resembling an artist's paint palette, Penta's vibrant and distinctive colorways work well together, as well as in isolation, making it a versatile textile for wide ranging applications including upholstery, panels, curtains and acoustics. Certified for commercial use, Penta achieves key FR standards and could form the base of an interior scheme, be used as an accent, or feature throughout.

Expanding our family of worsted wool fabrics, Penta works in harmony with other wool-rich fabric ranges including Sumi, Synergy and Blazer.
